

“Engaging Citizens To Create Vibrant, Enduring Communities”

William Roper, President and CEO, Orton Family Foundation

In their work with communities, the Orton Family Foundation has found that democracy works best. The most successful community projects are generated and directed from within, tapping local knowledge and creativity. The Foundation encourages broad citizen engagement and offers ways for townspeople to contribute their energy, talents, stories and legacies to the planning process. Learn about the communities and organizations across the country that are exploring new models for citizen engagement, community visioning, implementation and stewardship.
